COLUMBIA, ADAIR COUNTY, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY DECEMBER 1, 1909.

NUMBER 4

MRS. KATE HUGHES,

One of Columbia's Most Estimable Women, Dies After a Long Illness.

FUNERAL SERVICES AT UNION CHURCH

This week we are called upon to chronicle the death of Mrs. Kate Hughes, mother of Mr. E. H. Hughes, cashier of the First National Bank, this place. She died at her home, on Burkesville Street, Wednesday night at 10 o'clock.

The deceased was born in Cumberland county, but the greater portion of her life was spent in Adair county, near Union Church, but for the past ten or twelve years she resided in Columbia. She was a lady of strong character and had been a member of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church since early girlhood. Had she lived until next March she would have been 73 years old. Her husband, Dr. H. Q. Hughes, who was a prominent physician, preceded her to the grave many years ago. Since his death Mrs. Hughes made her home with her son, Mr. E. H. Hughes, devoting her whole time to the training of her grandchild, whose daily walks give evidence of instruction from a godly grandmother.

All the children of the deceased were present when the end came except her son, Mr. J. B. Hughes, who is living in Quanah, Texas.

The funeral services were held at Union last Friday morning at 10 o'clock, conducted by her old pastor, Rev. W. H. C. Sandidge, many relatives and friends being present. The floral offerings were many and beautiful.

The News extends its profound sympathy to the two sons and only daughter, Mrs. J. A. Diddle, and all the grand children, admonishing them to live in the fear and admonition of the Lord, the way to eternal life and to the home where all that is immortal of mother and grandmother peacefully rest.

Arrange to Enter.

Since the opening of the Lindsey Wilson Training School, more than six years ago, the most prosperous months have been from the first of January up to the close of the term. The management is making every effort to make this the banner year of the institution, and to that end valuable improvements have been made "on the hill." A new dormitory has been erected, furnishing ample room for all who will come, and the main building is heated with steam, making it the most comfortable institution in South Eastern Kentucky. The principals, Messrs Neilson and Moss, are assisted by a competent corps of teachers, teachers who are experienced, and the discipline is perfect. It is a most excellent school for boys, young men and maidens, and we want to see the buildings full of pupils at the beginning of the year 1910. Apply for admission at once.

Tandy-Smith.

Mr. Leslie Tandy, of Bliss, this county, was married last week to a Miss Smith, who resided near Lebanon. This was a surprise marriage and we know but little to write. A gentleman of this place met Mr. Tandy at the Whirlard Hotel and learned from him that he and his wife were en route to Indiana to visit relatives. Mr. Tandy is a young stock dealer and has many friends in this country, all of whom will give him a hearty greeting when he returns with his bride. He is a son of Mr. R. E. Tandy.

The Lebanon Leader contained the following notice of the marriage:

It was quite a surprise wedding Monday afternoon, when Mr. D. L. Tandy, of Adair county, and Miss Clelia Smith, of this county were united in marriage near this city. The contracting parties in company with Mr. Sam Burdette and Miss Maggie Smith, sister of the bride and Mr. Cleo Shireff and Miss Birdie Dahring, drove down the Campbellsville pike and had the ceremony performed, while seated in their buggy, by Rev. Mr. Moore, of this city. After the wedding the couple drove to town and Mr. and Mrs. Tandy took the 3:55 train for a short bridal tour.

The groom is a stock trader, and is a well known and popular young gentleman, while the bride is a daughter of Mr. W. P. Smith, of Gravel Switch, and is a young woman very much admired by all who know her.

Rev. R. L. Tally has returned from Liberty church, Cumberland county where he assisted the pastor in a series of meetings, terminating in twenty-four conversions.

A Memorial Meeting For William C. Read.

The Real Estate Exchange held a meeting at 11 o'clock yesterday morning at the office of the Business League in memory of one of their most highly esteemed members, William C. Read, who died last Friday. Practically the entire exchange was represented, and the meeting in an unusual way reflects the loss felt by every member of the exchange.

President Rothschild called the meeting to order with appropriate remarks and called for a report from the committee appointed to draft resolutions of condolence of Mr. Read, which resolutions, unanimously adopted, were presented by William Canby and are as follows:

In the death of our fellow member, William C. Read, the members of the Real Estate Exchange of St. Paul regret to learn that the man who had given so much to our public life. Our pride is in his close association with our organization for a period extending over twenty years, and the admiration and affection with which he was entertained from all as an individual, are only equalled by the realization of our loss in his death.

By birth a Southerner, a Northerner by adoption, he possessed the best characteristics of the two sections, and the memory of his charming personality will long linger in our minds.

The circuit court and circuit clerk sympathized with his bereaved family and that this resolution be incorporated in the minutes of the exchange.

Oscar L. Taylor thereupon presented a short tribute to Mr. Read as follows:

IN MEMORIAM.

William Cecil Read has crossed the Great Divide. The scenes that knew him once so well will know him no more forever.

Only as we approach one by one the various avenues in which he was wont to shine, will we realize how impossible it is to fill his place in the civic, the social, the sporting phases of this community.

Never forward, unostentatious, with unfailing courtesy and geniality toward all people, high and low, his career was a happy illustration of how a man can endear himself to all associates, by frank manliness, fair treatment of both friend and competitor, unwavering honesty and notable unselfishness.

Patriotism and conscientious in business, he was a man of confidence of the widow who entrusted to him her savings and of the banker who lent him his unlimited latitude. Year by year his circle of acquaintances widened, each to become a friend as he knew him better.

When he left his work and entered the social circle his personality was even more apparent; he fairly radiated good fellowship. Original, witty, grating with clever reminiscence and anecdotes—story teller—par excellence.

He was the star that illuminated every gathering.

His heart was so big it had room for almost everything, in his gentle, kindly way, and was a zealous supporter of all clean amateur sports, an eminent field手, and a good loser.

But Billy Read was a lover of the outdoors! He believed like Robert Louis Stevenson:

"There's no music like a little river," and that music filled his soul with joy. Never did Isaac Walton have a more patient, faithful disciple, nor one having more highly developed the attributes of the ideal sportsman, for it was in following the "gentle river" and around the campfire that Billy Read was without a peer.

His indefatigable buoyancy dispelled the clouds on a rainy day, not trampling rough that his bubbling spirits do not make it easy, and when the bed of balsam boughs was spread and the backlog of the fire was tumbling into red embers, some unique good-night would be said.

Friends my grip is almost packed and I will have Mr. Neats sachet ready by January 3, and then we will say all goodbye.

A CARD.

January 3, 1910, will be Moving day at Court-House.

Monday January 3, 1910, will be moving day with the officers in the Temple of Justice in old Adair—not a single one of the present officials will remain in charge. It will be a clean sweep—and who is responsible? The answer is the Republican and their little primary. And it will be years before the party of the patricians recover from the effects of the scheme which a great many of us led to think would prove a great success. But what! We all acted with very little sense when we entered into such an arrangement. I am speaking of the contestants now, but its all over now, so let it be.

I for one am glad to know that my political aspirations were born and buried in the short space of one year, and if reason sits in throne I am sure that I will never ask for an office again because my own party has said twice that I am entitled to no recognition at its hands, and I think that should suffice for a man to come see no reason for a man dying out right because he has done nothing.

He always worked for a living and when I walk out of the circuit clerk's office as a Deputy on January 3, 1910, I know I shall find some kind of employment and still be independent, of public favors. And I hope that when the circuit clerk elect steps within the portals he will find every thing square up, and in a receptive condition. Although I will not be present to greet him, because he has wronged me in a way that I will always remember, to gain the office over me. Possibly Mr. Neal the circuit clerk will be there to acquaint him with the mysteries of taxing cost and making orders, etc.

The following will make up the court house roster for the next four and six years:

Circuit Judge, J. C. Carter; Common wealth Attorney, A. A. Huddleston; Circuit Clerk, W. T. Price; County Judge, N. H. Moss; County Attorney, Gordon Montgomery; County Clerk, Walter Bryan; Sheriff, A. D. Patterson; County Superintendent of Schools, Miss Pearl Hindman; Jailor, J. K. P. Conover; Surveyor, E. G. Hardwick; Assessor, J. M. Wolford; Coroner, Dr. C. M. Russell.

Circuit Judge Carter will have the appointment of a Master Commissioner for Adair county to serve for six years, but it is not known at present who he will select.

It has not been given out who will be the deputies in either of clerk's offices or who will be the office deputy under Sheriff Patterson.

It will turn out very much like I told a certain gentleman several months ago, and doubtless he will remember it when he sees this article that the Republicans by their own acts and deeds were preparing to turn the county offices over to the democrats and they have partially done so. Now mark this prediction that in four years from now if some thing is not accomplished to head the breach now in our own ranks and to quiet the unrest and dissatisfaction now existing, the Democracy will not only take two but they will take all of our offices.

Gentlemen, I implore the kindness of those of you who supported me and as I expect, continue a Republican, do not be afraid to speak up now, when you are asked to get into almost eternal punishment by running for office. But the Lord deliver me from that desire.

Friends my grip is almost packed and I will have Mr. Neats sachet ready by January 3, and then we will say all goodbye.

Yours truly,
Fred McLean.

Thanksgiving Day.

The event was appropriately observed here. The business men of Columbia closed their store and shops and at 10:30 the community repaired to the Presbyterian church, and heard a most timely discourse delivered by Rev. B. M. Currie, pastor of the Methodist church. The sermon was well prepared, the topics discussed suitable for the occasion, and it was delivered most entertainingly. The church building was filled to its capacity, no speaker in recent years receiving closer attention.

The contribution plates were passed and thirteen dollars and four cents were dropped into divided boxes, the various churches of the town.

When the congregation was dismissed the people repaired to their respective homes, returned thanks for many blessings bestowed, and partook of bountiful dinners.

Mr. Isaac Scott, who is at work at one of the mills in town, met with a painful accident last Thursday. He was chopping wood when a stick up, striking him near an eye. At first it was thought he would lose the sight of his eye, but he is getting along very well, but he is getting along very well and will probably be well in a few days.

Born, to the wife of W. L. Parks, Thanksgiving morning, Nov. 25, 1909, a son.

Editor News:-

You are like a friend from home out here. We enjoy you so much. We enjoyed a ten days stay in Oklahoma City with brother James, and other Kentucky people there. I had the pleasure of preaching one night for the Christian Church to a very large audience. I did not let on that I felt a little sick, and I think they thought it alright and when I was asked if I could preach again they said yes. They are not used to that kind of preaching. And you know I am not used to compliments.

We spent a pleasant evening with the Gilmer girls. They have a nice home and they certainly know how to entertain in the good old fashion Kentucky style. The social feature was much enjoyed and the dinner was elegant. They are doing well here. Two of the girls have good positions in the school here.

I also visited Mr. Jo and Melvin Thomas who are Kentucky families. We came to this place last Friday and we will be here in revival meetings for the next ten days, perhaps. There is some of the finest country between Oklahoma City and El Reno that I have seen for a long time. It reminds me of the delta on Egypt, so rich and level that you can see to the end of the world almost.

This is the finest country in the world for wind mills, and they have them in great numbers, and they run day and night all the time. Don't cost a thing to run them. I said to Mrs. Williams, at the street of Oklahoma City the cleanest you ever saw? No wonder, she said, for the wind sweeps off everything loose and some things not loose. But the wind is alright here when you want it.

We expect to begin a meeting at Fairmount near Enid about the first Sunday in December. There are a good many Kentucky people in that part of the State. Then we will spend a few days at Still Water then home if the Lord wills.

We want to run down to Quanah next week and spent a few days there. We are keeping very well and are enjoying our meals and can sleep all the spare time. They had good rains here recently and wheat and alfalfa are doing well. This is good country here but the dry weather cut the corn crop short.

We had a Kentucky re-union at Mr. Lovell's home last Saturday. Four of the family that came here are all married in Oklahoma. We had a good old fashioned Kentucky dinner and we all enjoyed the afternoon in singing and in social conversation.

The weather is ideal here most of the time. It don't get as cold here as it does in Kentucky. The roads do not get very muddy, if they do the wind soon dries the mud up. The water is good here and there is plenty of it. They pump it with wind mills. More anon.

The Weighing Social.

The most amusing entertainment given in Columbia for many moons was pulled off at the court-house last Thursday evening, under the management of the ladies aid society of the Methodist Church. The procedure was out of the ordinary. All who entered had to be weighed at the door, the weight of the person being determined by the result was the amount to be paid.

In this way the entrance fee ran from 5 cents to 30 cents, and the fees entitling you to refreshments. Nearly every family in town was represented, the young occasion being highly enjoyable.

A prize was offered to the person who would weigh the closest to the combined weight of all who attended. Annie Sinclair, a little daughter of Mr. Ed Sinclair, guessed the closest, her figures being 23,190 and the exact weight was 23,109, a difference of nine. She received a nice candlestick.

The receipts of the evening, $31.00.

Judge Baker Banqueted.

BURKEVILLE, KY., Nov. 22, 1909.
Editor News:

Judge H. C. Baker, of Columbia, Adair County, retiring Judge of the 29th Judicial District, was honored by the Cumberland County Bar Association and County Officials by an elaborate banquet, given at the Frank House on last Saturday night, November 19th.

The occasion was a most delightful one and greatly enjoyed by all in attendance. It was a gastronomic as well as an artistic success.

Proceedings at 8:30 p.m. The guests arrived at the Frank House and were welcomed by Mrs. Frank.

Plates were laid for twenty guests at one long table. The table decorations were pretty and artistic, the centerpiece being a large bunch of white chrysanthemums whose beauty was enhanced by reflection from a large table mirror. At both ends of the table were large baskets of fruit and soft shaded lights. A five course lunch was served, consisting of all the delicacies of the season.

After the last course was served Judge M. O. Allen, who was toasting master for the occasion, proposed the toast "To the health and welfare of Judge Baker." After the toast was responded to, Judge Baker, who had spoken at the podium, was given a toast, and by their wit and eloquence, and the many complimentary things said of Judge Baker, proved that they were capable of appreciating the best of Judges and from some of their remarks Judge Baker must hold the warmest place possible in their hearts.

Among the guests from a distance were Judge J. C. Carter, of Tompkinsville, Ky., who will succeed Judge Baker, and Mr. Bell, an attorney, of Clinton County.

Immediately following the banquet the members of the bar and officials of the county adjourned to the Court House and following resolutions were introduced and unanimously adopted, spread upon the records of the Cumberland Circuit Court, which were as follows.

Saturday the 20th day of November, 1909, being the 6th day of the November Term of the Cumberland Circuit Court and the last term of this court that Judge H. C. Baker will preside over; and the court being about to adjourn sine die, the members, of the Cumberland County Bar together with the officials of the court assembled in the court room in Burkeville, and the following resolution was introduced by Judge M. O. Allen, read and unanimously adopted:

Resolved by the members of the Cumberland County Bar and officers of the Cumberland Circuit Court that Judge H. C. Baker has given himself to be an honest, learned and impartial Judge and now that he is about to retire from the bench, we wish in this way to manifest our appreciation of the efficient and impartial manner in which he has presided over his court at this place and request the Clerk of this Court to transcribe this resolution at the foot of the orders of this term of the court.

Seriously Hurt.

A special dispatch to the Courier Journal from Russellville, Ky., Nov. 25 says—J. W. Johnston, traveling salesman for a Cincinnati tailoring house, lies unconscious and prostrate on the floor of his room having been struck by a blow on the spine and will be well in a few days. Mr. Johnston is from Cave City. His wife and baby reached here to night. He failed to recognize them.

Mr. Johnston was born and reared in this county and was a resident of Columbia for several years. He is hoped by his many friends here that he will recover.

The LATEST.—A despatch reached here after dark Monday evening states that Mr. Johnston is resting easy and that the doctors had hopes of his recovery.

There is a straw sow on my premises, five or six years old, mostly black, very little white. The owner can have same by paying for this notice and for the feeding. F. B. England, 4-12, Nell, Ky.

As is the custom of the Hancock Hotel on Thanksgiving an unusual good dinner was prepared and very much enjoyed by the many who put in an appearance.

Railroad Prospects.

Mr. Mansfield, one of the firm of a construction company located at Indianapolis, reached Columbia last week according to appointment and went over the route from here to Greensburg, the objective point, in company with W. R. Myers, N. M. Tute and T. R. Stults. He was well pleased with the country traversed and thought the route feasible for a line of railroad. He was well pleased with Columbia and her surroundings, and was surprised at the amount of business transacted annually and the amount of freight received and departed from the town each year.

He was convinced that we needed quicker transportation and said that a road could be built from here to Greensburg, and that his company would undertake the contract if the people along the line would show a friendly disposition by taking stock. When asked what he thought Adair county would have to do in order to secure the road, he said stock to the amount of $60,000 would secure it. The matter was referred to the commissioners and it is the opinion of the commissioners that $50,000 can be raised by subscription. So at this time the prospects for a road is good if the people will do their part. The amount the people will subscribe will not be a donation but will be preferred stock. After looking over the situation at Greensburg, Mr. Mansfield left for Indianapolis where he will make up estimates and report to the people here in about ten days. When his report reaches Columbia a full statement of the situation will be made.

Watch the Windows.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Baptist church will have an exhibition in Coffey & Patterson's show window, on Dec. 14th and 15th, a variety of articles, such as centerpieces, table covers, bags, pillow cases, embroidered towels, cushion tops, cook aprons, etc., and various other articles too numerous to mention, embracing all as ornamental. On Dec. 16th they will hold a bazaar in the court house, afternoon, for the purpose of disposing of these items for a very small sum. The society generally are cordially invited to attend, as these things are suitable for Xmas gifts, as well as for use in the home.

The society meets with Mrs. J. N. Page next Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. All the members are urged to attend, as there will be business of importance to transact.

For Sale or Rent.

I have a good little farm for sale or rent, prefer renting if I can find a suitable tenant. It's 2 miles East of Columbia in a first-class neighborhood. Will rent and furnish team and all farming implements, for a part of crop. About 12 or 14 acres already plowed for corn and balanced easy to cultivate. Good buildings and plenty of water and in a desirable place to live. See S. C. Neat, Columbia, Ky.

The Epworth League was reorganized Sunday evening at the Methodist church with the following officers: President, Mrs. B. M. Currie; 1st Vice President, Miss Nitrite Clark; 2nd Vice President, Rev. J. W. Nelson; V. President, Rev. J. W. McFarland; Secretary and Treasurer, Gleason Hale. Regular devotional services will be held each Sunday evening preceding the preaching service. All the young people are invited to attend and enlist in this work to promote piety and better prepare themselves for future usefulness.

Turkeys Wanted.

We want your turkeys next week beginning Monday the 6th and will buy all the week. Get our price before you sell. Northern Poultry & Egg Co.

Church Social.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Presbyterian church will render a reception to all members of the Presbyterian congregation, at the elegant home of Mr. H. A. Walker, on Greensburg street, next Thursday from the hours of five until nine p.m. The first hour will be devoted to those under sixteen years of age. It is cordially urged that all Presbyterians shall attend. No admission charges.

For Sale.

One extra good rubber tired buggy in good repair. One Bab-cock cut-under steel tire runabout; One good set single harness. See Tim Gravens.

FATHER

Also Showed an Aptness for Latin.

The old farmer had worked and scraped to get money enough to send his worthless boy to college. Vacation time came and the boy came home for a visit. He found his father in the horse lot cutting out manure.

"John," said the father, "how have you been getting along in your Latin?"

"First rate, father, first rate. I've finished the Reader and am in Caesar now."

Holding up the spade he was using, the father asked:

"What is this in Latin, John?"

"That in Latin is 'spadibus,' father."

"And what is manure in Latin?"

"Manubibus," promptly responded the brazen young rascal.

"And what's the Latin name for cart, my son?"

"Cartibus," father, "cartibus."

The old gentleman didn't think it necessary to catechise John any further, so, handing him the spade with ceremonial dignity, he said:

"Johnibus, my sonibus, grasp this spadibus and load this cartibus with this horsibus manubibus. Now do good workibus, my dear Johnibus, or I'll thrash you like hellibus."

The old farmer didn't send "Johnibus" back to college any more, as he decided he could give him a "practical" Latin education at home.

Our Illiterate Convicts.

The Louisville Times has begun the publication of a series of articles on the subject of prison reform. Judging from the first article, which appeared in last Saturday's paper, the general purpose of these articles is to change our penitentiary system so that when men are leased after serving sentences they will make good citizens instead of committing crime again. In his connection the Prison Commissioners make the startling statement that of the 2,000 prisoners confined in the Frankfort and Eddyville penitentiaries two out of every three can neither read or write. It seems from this that while reforms may take place in the prisons we are in need of reform outside to keep men from committing crime. If ten per cent of our population, which is illiterate, furnishes two thirds of our criminals it looks like the greatest reform would be to introduce the spelling book and the reader. It costs very much less to educate to prevent crime than either the care of criminals in our prisons or their reformation.

Education, according to the figures of the prison commission would reduce our convicts from 2,000 to less than 1,000 and at the same time protect life and property and save court and prison cost. Kentucky has been busy for some time in looking after College, High School and Normal education at a heavy expense to the State and instituting no changes to stamp out illiteracy. Seventy-five per cent of the children for whom the Common School was established (those too poor to be educated otherwise) are out of school while all the school effort is being expended to give higher education to those who would be educated without the public school. It is time the attention of the State was directed to the real purposes of the public school system and reach out after those who are growing up illiterate and furnishing two thirds of our criminals.—E. Town News.

She Could Not.

"With one wave of my wand," says the fairy, "I can make you grow young again."

"Excuse me," replied the woman, "if I decline your offer. If you can bring youth to me at my present age, all right; but I positively refuse to travel back through pyrography the first stages of bridge, the habit back, the straight front, balloon sleeves, and all the rest of the fads I can remember."

Cleaning Hints.

Use clear water, without soap, to wash windows, and when rubbed with paper they will be perfectly clean.

To clean graniteware when mixtures have burned on. Half fill the pan with cold water, add washing soda and heat gradually to the boiling point, when the dish may be easily washed.

Water bottles or carafes, are hard to keep looking bright, especially if the water used leaves deposit of lime. One method is to fill the bottle half full with soapsuds, add bits of newspaper, and let stand, shaking occasionally. Another method: Save the peeling from potatoes, add to soapsuds and shake occasionally until clean.

Songs in The Night.

Very many of the sweetest joys of Christian hearts are songs which have been learned in the bitterness of trial. It is said of a little bird that he will never learn to sing the song his master will have him sing while it is light in his cage. He learns a snatch of every song he hears, but will not learn a full melody of his own. And the master covers the cage and makes it dark all about the bird, and then he listens and learns the one song that is taught him, until his heart is full of it. Then, ever after, he sings the song in the light. With many of us it is as with the bird. The Master has a song he wishes to teach us, but we learn only a strain of it, a note here and there, while we catch up snatches of the world's song and sing them with it. Then he comes and makes it dark about us, till we learn the sweet melody. He would teach us. Many of the loveliest songs of peace and trust sung by God's children in the world have been taught in the darkened chamber of sorrow.

Killed by Tree.

Schuylerville Harrison, the seventeen-year-old son of Mr. George Harrison, of the Tracy country, was accidentally killed by a falling tree. The young man and his father, with another gentleman, were in the woods cutting timber, when a tree, which they had cut, split and flew back, striking young Harrison in the abdomen, injuring him so that he died a few hours later. He is said to have been a fine young man, and his parents have the profound sympathy of the whole community.—Glasgow Republican.

Examiners For Kentucky Banks.

With the endorsement of the Kentucky Bankers' association a bill prepared by Secretary of State Ben L. Bruner, will be introduced in the next session of the Legislature providing for the appointment of the Kentucky Board of Bank Examiners, which will consist of four members.

The members will be appointed by the secretary of state for a term of four years and shall be appointed first in April of next year if the bill becomes a law. The board will be non-partisan as two members will be selected from the political parties casting the largest vote and the next largest vote at the preceding election. It is provided in the measure that the terms of office of two members shall expire the first Monday in January 1912, and that the appointments and vacancies shall be filled by the secretary of state.

Under the terms of the bill each state bank, building and loan association, savings bank investment company, safe deposit, trust company, savings and loan societies and associations, combined banks and trust companies and every other character of state bank doing business now in the state, or that will be organized hereafter, shall be examined twice a year, and the examiners shall have the power to make a thorough examination of the cash, bills, collaterals, security of every kind owned by the bank.

The bill also provides that no officer of stockholder of any banking institution shall examine any bank in which he is interested as a stockholder, officer or director, and that no notice shall be given any institution to be examined before the examination takes place. The examiners shall be required to give $1,000 bond for the faithful performance of their duty. The salary shall be $3,000 and all the necessary traveling expenses and other expenses incident to the work; and the secretary of state shall be paid $1,000 annually for the services rendered by him as ex-officio member of the board.

For the purpose of reimbursing the state for the money expended under this measure the law shall assess all institutions governed by this act as follows: From institutions having a capital stock of $15,000 and less than $25,000, $20; those having a capital stock of $25,000 and less than $50,000, $25; those having a capital stock of $50,000 and less than $150,000, $30; those having a capital stock of $100,000 and less than $200,000, $35; those having a capital stock of $200,000 and less than $300,000, $40; and so on, $5 being added for each $100,000 of the capital stock.

The Hog Crop.

The hog crop is admittedly small. Government estimates place the shortage around 11 per cent. in the main hog-producing States. Market experts generally consider that the corn-belt will have about 25 per cent. less hogs to sell this year than last, says Breeders' Gazette. Receipts so far this year have been running far behind, with a shortage so far, at the six principal Western markets, of 1,879,000 head, or 12 per cent. compared with the same months last year.

With the high prices that have prevailed for live hogs, consumption has been curtailed in a measure, but still there is only a meager supply of the hog product in store. Although hog prices have been and still are high compared with cattle, the prospect is that there will be nothing in the size of the marketward movement or in the further shrinkage in consumption to justify any great reduction in prices this winter. As cold weather intensifies, consumption is bound to increase.

The Angel at the Home.

She does not make any fuss about it, nor asked to have a porter at her elbows. But her sunny heart of self-forgetting love will not let her hands be at rest while there is any bit of helpful service she can render. If she can without observation skip the burn roll of undercrust on her plate it is done. If someone must stay at home when there is a day's outing, she tells with music in every tone, how glad she will be to be left quietly behind and have time all to herself to do over so many things she has in mind. And none suspect from word or tone how great the sacrifice to give up the pleasure.

Her quick eye detects the oversight of neglect on the part of another, and she quickly hastens to remedy the matter careful that none shall know her hand has made up another's failure. Is a harsh round of judgment started by some ill advised criticism? She deftly and tenderly drops the sweetest possible word for the criticized one, and switches the conversation to other topics.

Rough Handling at Home.

The boy with a temper is the boy who has had rough handling at home. He is like a horse that has been in the care of a bad stable-boy.

The boy with a temper is the boy who has been fretted into a fever. There is the type of child with a temper who has been spoiled by indulgence; who learned before he was two years old that he could have things that he wanted if he cried with enough persistency and with good vocalization. In extreme cases he held his breath. But such a boy has always abandoned this policy for public service long before he reaches a secondary school.

What he needs is an association, steady and cool, which will serve him as lighting conductor. He needs to see others keep cool when times are hot. He will learn one habit, as he has the other, from the people with whom he is. "Children," Mrs. Wiggs would say, "are like bastings. You take out what you put in"—The New Idea Woman's Magazine for December.

The theory that a man must depend on the munificence of friends if he wishes to enter the lists of literature, and be entirely contended with the glory that may come to him is a perfect absurdity. Inventors work for glory and for money. Men who write give a fair return to the world. They are entitled to some reward more tangible than mere words. He who contributes a classic to our literature adds to the sum total of civilization.

Ellenboro, N. C.Editor News:

Since I contributed anything to your columns a great deal of history has been made, and the good work is still going on.

I am still backing Cook as original discoverer of North Pole and assigning Peary the place of second fiddler in the enterprise.

If anybody in the old Kentucky Home desires to know my business and whereabouts; I am principal of Beams' Academy, in Rutherford county, N. C.; near Ellenboro.

We have an elegant and commodious building, nicely painted, well equipped with good blackboards, patent desks, good stoves, maps, etc.

Term began on 15th of November, and we have enrolled 76 pupils; with many more to follow.

I am glad to learn that Kentucky has arrayed herself again in Democratic columns, and hope this will not merely apply to "off years."

I will further add that some of my views have been receiving withering rebukes,

"Comfort," a monthly magazine published in Augusta, Me., has a young folks' department, edited by Charles Noel Douglas.

Some time since an article was published in young folks' department bearing signature of Robt. C. White, my 15 year old son. This emanation ridiculed those who believe the moon influences sowing and cultivating crops, killing hogs, making soap, or cutting timber.

A deluge of letters has fallen on Robt., some for and some against his views and those of Chas. Noel Douglas, who as "Uncle Charlie" edits columns and criticises the articles.

The hoop snake was discussed, and Robt. was skeptical as to the present or past existence of such a serpent, in which view he was sustained by "Uncle Charlie."

But a mother in Isreal wrote that she had been chased by hoop snakes, and whose scoff at the moon had denied the faith and is worse than an infidel. Others said Robt. was right, and still others sided with the ancient dame.

What gave rise to the hoop snake episode was one of my neighbors killed a snake which some called a hoop snake. I scouted the idea of the hoop snake ever being in existence. Such a theory is no better authenticated than the existence of ghosts, witches, or sea-serpents.

Howbeit, some editors, preachers, etc., who believe anything that will fill their pockets, spoke out; and I was left among the skeptics. Hear your own dogs and believe in the moon to be recognized in good society. Anybody who believes that the moon influences things mundane is prepared to believe any extravagant vagaries as to sea-serpents or hoop snakes.

I hope to meet the people of Adair and Russell counties in The Old Kentucky Home ere many moons wax and wane.

Melvin L. White.

can could hardly walk the streets without being insulted. But things have changed, and following the recent flurry, Republicans were treated with the utmost courtesy. We did not hear of a single jeer or taunt, and there was no crowing. And this gentlemanly conduct was appreciated.—Glasgow Republican.

Profitable Hog Feeding.

It is much the best economy to furnish swine a grain ration when they are on pasture, as it results in better gains and a better product. One man estimates that it takes from one-half to one third less corn on alfalfa pasture than on a straight grain ration to make a hog ready for market. Many let the hogs run on alfalfa until about five or six months old, by which time they reach a weight of 75 to 125 pounds, feeding just a little grain; then they feed heavily for about two months and sell the hogs at eight months old weighing 200 to 225 pounds. One farmer, who raises about a thousand hogs a year and who in one year sold $11,200 worth, makes a practice of growing his hogs on alfalfa pasture until about eight months old feeding one ear of corn per head daily. He then feeds heavily on corn for a month or two and sells at an average weight of 200 to 225 pounds. Another man feeds all the corn and slop the pigs will clean up, all the while grazing them on alfalfa pasture, and sells at six to eight months old at weights of 250 to 300 pounds. Another who raises about a thousand head a year, feeds all the corn the pigs will eat, beginning shortly after weaning and continuing until the hogs are sold at ten to eleven months old averaging about 125 pounds.

Another farmer, from weaning time (two months old) until eight months old, feeds the pigs nothing but dry corn on alfalfa pasture, averaging about one-half gallon of corn (3½ pounds) a day per head. At the end of eight months he sells at an average weight of 250 pounds.—From Coomburn's "Swine in America."

A Poultry House For Winter.

In making a poultry house, care should be taken to make its wall proof against the wind. It is the little draught that strikes a hen that gives her roup, castarr and such diseases. Make the north, west and east sides perfectly tight and in the south leave a big window. Cover this on the outside with poultry wire fencing and on the inside tack stout muslin, using no glass and the house will be light and perfectly ventilated without any draughts to hurt the fowls. Put the perch es above a platform, having the platform thirty inches from the floor. The perches should be six or eight inches above the platform. This gives the fowls the entire floor space and adds to the room in the house. A house 8x10 feet is plenty big enough for twenty-five fowls, where they are allowed to run out of doors. Put a foot of straw on the floor and throw the grain into it so the fowls must dig for it so they will get exercise during the cold weather. Give them a box of grit a box of fine charcoal, a wide, shallow box of dust and keep plenty of pure water where they can get at it. Feed wheat, corn, oats, barley and beef scrap. Don't worry about getting balanced rations until you have got run of the business.—Poultry.

THE ADAIR COUNTY NEWS

The Adair County News.

Published Every Wednesday
... BY THE ...

Adair County News Company
INCORPORATED.

CHAS. S. HARRIS - EDITOR

Democratic newspaper devoted to the interests of the city of Columbia and the people of Adair and adjacent counties.

Registered at the Columbia Postoffice as second class mail matter.

WED., DEC., 1, 1909.

Have you ever thought how rapid would be the growth of Columbia and what great improvements would take place on the farms in this country if a railroad was built to this little city? The fact is that the spirit of enterprise is manifested in every section of the county and year by year improvements are being made regardless of costs and disadvantages, but if shipping facilities were only what the average railroad gives, the development would surpass the most enthusiastic. Within the last few years land values have nearly doubled while no improvement has been made for marketing products. Columbia likewise has kept up with the average town even surpassing many railroad towns, in substantial improvements and yet the same old way of getting in and out remains.

If the people of Columbia, and Adair county had the advantages of a good railroad the next ten years would advance values and bring developments both in town and county that would impress this entire part of the State. Just now we have hope that a road may be built and believe that the people of this section will gladly give the encouragement necessary. Too long we have been indifferent to our own advancement. We have been too well contented with our surroundings. The time of unrest has come, the ambition of the people are demanding better things and under such conditions we ought to move forward and build the road now under consideration.

The Larue County Herald pays the following compliment, if you want to call it a compliment, to the speaker of the national House of Representatives: Congress meets the first Monday in December, and your uncle J. Cannon will again become the man of the hour. He rides the American Congress just like a robust boy rides his hickory stick horse. It is true the insurgents and the Democrats backjump and rear up in an effort to dislodge the trust made Speaker, but he stays in the saddle and rides over every route designated by the interests of the country.

W. E. Proctor, who was the Republican candidate for Auditor of the city of Louisville, was shot to death on Main Street in that city last Monday morning by Robert M. Culley. The slayer waited for two hours for his victim, claiming that Proctor had assaulted his (Culley's) wife. Before dying the mortally wounded man claimed his innocence, saying that a mistake had been made. Culley is a drinking man and he and the man he killed had been personal friends for ten years. Mrs. Culley has made two statements. One that her husband was justifiable, the other that he ought not to have shot.

Miss Pearl Doss, a popular and accomplished young lady of Marion, Ky., was burned to death at Madisonville, Ky., last Wednesday evening. She had gone to Madisonville to spend Thanksgiving with her sister, Mrs. T. E. Hearing and was standing in front of an open grate when her clothing caught. She was burned so horribly that death followed in a few hours. The dead girl was organist for the Southern Methodist Church, Marion. Her passing brought much sorrow and the manner of her death should be a warning.

The papers of Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the Arctic explorer, showing that he reached the North Pole April 21, 1908, will reach the University of Copenhagen in a few days, being now enroute. The University authorities will pass upon them and in a few weeks an answer will be given to the world. We predict that Cook's statement will be sustained.

William McKay, the 15 year old boy of Jacksonville, Fla., who, with Earl Bullock, robbed the State Bank at Eudora, Kansas, on the 11th of November, has been paroled by Hugh Means Judge of the Juvenile Court. A boy who could commit such a crime should have been punished.

Several sorehead Democratic newspapers are barking, fearing that certain men of the party will be nominated for office when the next State convention convenes. We take it that representative Democrats from every locality in Kentucky will have sense enough to select a good ticket when the time comes. We are tired of the rot that is being published by some papers.

The Elizabethton News, always bright and newsy, donned a new dress last week, making the old girl look handsomer than ever. Watch her as she gives the news from house to house. She is flippant and reliable.

Hon. Ben Johnson, the Congressman from the Fourth district, will announce his candidacy for Governor in a short time. He is looked upon with favor in this neck of the woods.

President Taft has not as yet commenced his message to Congress and the statement is made that it will not be finished until a day or two before the session begins.

Hon. John G. Carlisle, who has been critically ill in an infirmary in New York for the past ten days, is reported much better.

Russell County Farmers Institute.

Our Annual Farmers Institute was held in Jamestown on Nov. 25th and 26th, and while our farmers did not turn out as well as they should there was a fair attendance of farmers from most parts of the county on both days.

The Agricultural Department at Frankfort sent State lecturer, W. T. Kane, to instruct the Institute along such lines of farming and live stock husbandry as are most needed on our farms.

We people of Russell county command Mr. Kane to any Institute work. He leaves here for Gradyville. We had talks with several Alfalfa raisers and some are raising it successfully in this country.

The Russell County Farmers Institute will meet in Jamestown the 2nd Saturday in December and we hope the farmers from all over the county will come and let's have a meeting that we all can enjoy and be benefitted by our being together.

Yours Truly,
Attis McFarland.

Edith.

We are having some nice hog killing weather and lots are being killed.

Mr. Joe Campbell, the poultry man, was in our midst one day last week.

Mr. Mont Harmon and wife visited relatives at Neatsburg last Thursday.

The box supper at Tabernacle last Wednesday night was very much enjoyed by those present. Miss Linnie Winfrey won in the ring contest for the prettiest girl. Hurrah for Miss Linnie!

Evans Bros. have just received a fine Duroc Jersey Boar, that they purchased from E. M. Casle & Son, of Joy, Ill. He is pronounced by all who have seen him to be one of the best boars ever brought to this country.

Mr. W. R. Knifley is buying tobacco at from 3 to 6 cents per pound.

Mr. and Mrs. Ples Wesley visited the family of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. McKinley, of Columbia, several days last week.

Mrs. I. C. Harmon, who has been on the sick list for the past week is better at this writing.

Several of the neighbors spent quite an enjoyable day with Mr. and Mrs. Josh Beard Thanksgiving.

Mr. W. R. Knifley and wife visited relatives on Casey Creek last Wednesday night and Thursday.

Miss Maggie Rubarts, of Dunnville, is visiting the family of Mr. G. W. Rubarts this week.

Mr. C. B. Whitney, of Campbellsburg was in this neighborhood several days last week.

The spelling at Spout Springs last Friday night was largely attended and all report a nice time.

Several of the neighbors spent Thanksgiving with the Misses Evans. Those present were Mr. Mrs. Cassius Breeding, Mrs. Verna Campbell and daughter, Annie; Misses Hattie Williams, Besse and Linnie Winfrey and Mr. Charlie Williams.

Owensby.

Mr. Bob Roys and wife, of Garlin, passed here the 15th enroute to Mrs. Martha E. Barger's where Mr. Roys spent a few days bird hunting.

Mr. Ezra Moore is on the road now.

Miss Stella Long, who resides on Indian creek, is visiting the family of her uncle M. L. Owens at this writing.

Uncle Calbert Blair visited his son, Logan, Saturday night and Sunday.

Uncle Sam Long's condition remains about the same.

The protracted meeting at Bethel closed last Sunday night.

Rev. Sam Stapp delivered a very interesting sermon at Mt. Vernon, Sunday.

Misses Mollie Cain and Laura Moore visited Idell Simms one day last week.

On the 17th Inst. the neighbors and friends of Mr. J. K. P. Aaron gathered in to celebrate in honor of his 68th birthday. The good women which came, prepared an excellent dinner for the occasion and all that partook of it say they were glad they did. It was a day of enjoyment and pleasure and one that will be long remembered by all who were present.

Miss Lena Oaks, teacher at this place, attended Thanksgiving services at French Valley the 25th. She reports a large crowd and a nice time.

Mr. J. C. Coffey has just completed a nice dwelling house.

Misses Nellie Haynes and Minnie Wheat, visited Idell Simms one day last week.

There is a meeting in progress at Welcare being conducted by Bro. Geo. Groves. It has been in progress something near three weeks.

Mr. J. A. Phelps, of Esto, sold a pair of mules to A. Hunn, grice not known.

The Farmer's Woolen Mill is now in operation and Mr. Reece is ready to serve the public.

Eli.

The health of this community is very good at present.

Ben McGowan and wife have moved near Stanford to make their future home. We wish them good luck.

Mr. F. M. Ballenger with J. M. Robinson, Norton Company, Mr. R. O. Jones with Cumberland Grocery Co. and a Mr. Webb with the Cumberland Tobacco Works, were here yesterday.

Erbry Russell is still hauling spokes to Fonthill. Bryant says he has hauled over one hundred thousand.

On Saturday, Nov. 20, J. K. Butcher sent his father, L. P. Butcher to A. D. Dunbar at Ono, Ky., to assist in bringing his son-in-law, A. D. Dunbar and family up to his place. After they arrived (about 11 o'clock) dinner was announced, uncle Levi called them to come on, when he opened the dining room door, there to his surprise greeted him 47 of his children, grandchildren, cousins and friends, it being his 80th birthday. After the sumptuous dinner was served, they all parted to their various places of abode, leaving the old gentleman enjoying the occasion, immensely.

G. F. Rexroat and son, Bazelle made a business trip to Adair county last week.

McGaha.

The rain that fell a few nights ago was a welcome visitor.

Farmers are busy gathering corn.

Anderson Murrell is visiting his sister in Taylor county.

Rev. I. M. Grimsley is teaching an interesting singing school at Oak Grove church. The people are so well satisfied with his instructions they employed him the second term. He is the best instructor that has visited us. He has won the respect of the community. They paid him more than they promised and gave him the best order that has been given to any one at that place for some time. We expect great benefits from the school.

Obituary.

On Nov. 4, 1909, the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Coffey and claimed for its victim their loving daughter, Laura, age 16 years 2 months and 3 days. She had been dreadfully afflicted for several years, and all that loving hands, friends and physicians could do was done but to no avail. She was very bright and the idol of her parents heart. But weep not dear parents for God's Will is done not ours, and she is around God's eternal throne come to share with her, the eternal joys of that bright world.

Then we said: We miss thee, Oh! we miss thee. We miss our darling's face, No master who is present There is none to fill her place. One is free of sweet affection One we love so dear Was loved by all his concern And all who knew thee here. We miss thee, yes we miss thee At morning noon and night We miss thee here and everywhere Thy sunny face so bright. We miss the silvery prattle When evening's hours have come And long for thy dear presence To cheer our lonely home. We miss thee, yes we miss thee But in heaven thou art rest No angel there is brighter Among the pure and blest. No sounds of sweet laughter Our angels pure and fair Are found in the hereafter Than our Laura who is there. She comes with the first to greet us With joys tangy to tell. Of joys more pure in heaven Of love the Savior told! And how the angels hearken To the lamb within the fold.

So we must spare our darling God and angels fair No soul more fit for heaven Than our Laura who is there.

She was laid to rest in the family graveyard at Mt. Pleasant. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. G. R. Abel in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives. Her greatest joy was singing. She had been singing almost all her life, but she has ceased to sing in this world and is now singing with the angels on God's eternals shore.

Woman's Beauty

Some women retain their beauty to an advanced age. But women, who regularly endure pain, age rapidly, for suffering leaves its lasting marks on them.

Nearly all women suffer more or less with some form of female trouble. It should not be neglected. Avoid the pain—treat yourself at home by taking Cardui, as thousands of other women have done. Begin at once and give Cardui a fair trial.

TAKE CARDUI

It Will Help You

Mrs. Katie Burlison, Goshen, Ill., tried Cardui and writes: "I suffered from female troubles, and was so sick I could not stand on my feet. Finally I began to take Cardui, and soon began to mend. Now I am able to do all my housework and am in much better health than I was before." Try it.

AT ALL DRUG STORES

Kentucky Hounds Win.

After three days running the match pack fox hunt between the Walker fox hounds, of Kentucky strain, and the July pack of Georgia strain at Barre, Mass., was won on the 21st by the Walker pack. Mr. Samuel L. Woolridge, of Versailles, Ky., is the master of the winning pack, and Mr. George J. Garrett, of Baltimore, master of the July hounds. The pack number ten hours each—Rider and Driver.

Hog Prices.

There is every reason for the high hog prices. The country has long been shy of hogs and in late weeks, when ordinarily there should have been marketings 35 to 50 per cent. larger than have been noted, the supplies have not come up to the demands. Packers are unable to accumulate a surplus of fresh meats, much less get enough to begin making any material amount of fresh pork. It's a hand-to-mouth deal all around and as long as this situation remains there appears small chance of the price basis working lower.

An excellent way to clean skillets or kettles in which food has burnt or stuck is to put a teaspoonful of soda in them with some cold water and let come to a boil. By that time the soda will have cut the burnt mixture so it will not be necessary to scrape or scour the vessel in order to clean it.

The bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor announces that a continued improvement in the industrial situation of the country is indicated by the reports of leading internal commerce movements during the past month. There is a big increase in the transportation and use of materials like soft coal, coke and iron in the output of mills and distribution of products. With good grain-crops it looks like a busy and prosperous winter.

OTTOMAN SILK GOWN WITH ODDLY DRAPE.

but in house gowns only. It is to be hoped that the long sleeve will continue to prevail for walking gowns of all kinds. In some of the afternoon tailor made there is a relief from the dark fogging color in the lapels of the coat, which are often of oriental embroidery or its effect, while the collar is of black velvet, satin or moire.

The New Blouse.

The new blouses for severe suits do not carry lace or any such feminine frivolities as trimming. They will be simple and plain. They give a soft finish. They flounce down the front and have the inevitable frill. This expresses itself in many ways, either as a cascade or a single plaiting or a three inch double plaiting that runs to the point of the blouse. These will be often bound with the material. They have long sleeves, set tight from wrist half way to elbow, then flare into a moderate puff and vanish under a rather tight cap. Many are made on boned linings, and this is especially true of the waist. The waist, which has by no means disappeared over the horizon, the buttons down the front are mostly ornamental and crocheted ones are preferred, although young girls wear flat ones of silver or gold.

A Well Fitted as Ever.

Keep right on wearing the combination undergarment. There is no just reason to suppose that, even should the gathered frocks and old time belt lines prove altogether satisfactory, women will want to wear garters from the waist down.

Just as the fitted garment proved altogether necessary for the actress robe will it prove when the factory beneath gathers from the waist down.

It can be seen that women will continue to be full under the bust, though it may be just into surface later.

At present there is no flood of fitted competitors in the silk jersey weaves.

The most closely fitted underwear prove it to you if there remains the slightest doubt.

Much Hard Work on Gowns.

It is surprising how much hand work adds to the beauty of women's garments, not necessarily elaborate needlework, as was exemplified by a gown seen recently, the bodice of which was made of a delicate white muslin, the skirt long slant and a plain overskirt, short and square across the front. The waist and the elbow sleeves were also plain and smooth fitting, but the entire surface of both was run with silk embroidery in pretty patterns of flowers, vines and leaves in groups of branching lines. The hem of the upper skirt was similarly decorated. Yoke and undersleeves were of ecru net, and the belt was of soft green silk.

Dresden Buckles.

Little slides measuring one inch by one and a half inches are made to match a girl's dress or blouse, shown for the bodice. They are meant to hold in place the loosely draped ends of soft silk, chiffon or ribbon velvet adorning some of the draped princess evening or afternoon dresses. These slides are made of a thin metal plate riveted with blue and pink Dresden flowers, and they are to be found at the hat ornament counters in the millinery departments, while their very own buckles and clasps matching with a nice, are at their regular places with other belt findings.

WOMAN AND FASHION

Smart Back Drapery.

In the drawing of gown of ottoman silk has a draped waist that sends a long end off the front and another from the back. These meet, loop at the side and then fall in tasseled ends. The sleeves of this gown are short, as are many house costumes of the day. The short sleeve banishment was brief. It is back where it is wished,

"The intelligent wife... have" was the way a commercial traveler interrupted a story teller. "Now, take the town I come from. While I was home on a visit last year the place was all wrought up over the systematic killing of a certain woman in our leading cemetery. The thing had been going on some time, and the people were shocked, of course. Finally a guard was posted and the thief captured, and the thief was a malefactor. It seemed that a certain woman living near the cemetery had held up the malefactor, who was beating the animal, prosecuted him for cruelty, then bought the male and turned it out to pasture. The male was fat, fat to the bone, that evening night it would jump the pasture fence, go into the cemetery, pick up the freshest bunch of flowers it could find, carry them to the woman's house and deposit them on the front stoop, where she could find them in the morning. Now, when you talk of intelligence in animals!"

"Good night," said the man whom the commercial traveler had interrupted.—New York Globe.

The Top Hat.

Top hats, "peaking up like the spine of a fish" and "topping off the creeps" as a sixteenth century writer describes them, were known in the time of Elizabeth, and the Puritans affected them until they merged into the old fashioned bawlers of our great-grandmother's day. Top hats of silk appeared in France about 1800, and twenty years later silk hats with felt bodies were introduced into England. About 1840 the French silk hat was placed in the market and at once adopted in the familiar "chimney pot" shape. There were several styles of hats in use, the Washington hat, with the yeoman crown; the Anjou hat, bell shaped at the top, and the D'Orsay hat, with ribbed silk banding and a big bow. The color also varied. Thus the great of Harrington started the green for great hats, and the color soon became the standard of all. The hat was never so favored by any great personage as to account for its general adoption.—London Answers.
